You may look like you have it all together while privately feeling anxious, stuck, overwhelmed, or unsure of what comes next. Maybe you're noticing patterns in your relationships or finding yourself questioning who you are and what you truly want. I work with thoughtful, introspective adults who want to better understand themselves and their experiences. Together, we explore what's beneath the surface with curiosity and compassion, creating space for greater self-trust, clarity, and meaningful change.

In my practice, I offer a space for reflection where we can get curious about your experiences without judgment. I work dynamically, exploring how your past experiences, relationships, and underlying patterns may shape the way you feel, relate, and navigate the present. Together, we'll make space for new perspectives and possibilities.

Taking the first step toward therapy can feel daunting. It takes courage to put yourself out there, especially when you're not quite sure where to begin. Whether you're carrying way too much, feeling a little lost, or simply hoping to understand yourself a little better, you don't have to navigate it alone. I invite you to reach out for a free consultation.

I work with people who feel stuck in old patterns, beliefs, or behaviors that limit confidence, trust, and authenticity. During our sessions, we'll explore what's holding you back and create a plan tailored to your needs. You can use therapy as a space to slow down, better understand yourself, find greater clarity, strengthen your relationships, and create meaningful change at your own pace.
