Getting to know Liane Brust

Therapy is not about fixing anything, because you're not broken. It's about understanding yourself deeply enough to choose what comes next.... show more

What should a new client know about working with you?

I work with people who feel stuck in old patterns, beliefs, or behaviors that limit confidence, trust, and authenticity. During our sessions, we'll explore what's holding you back and create a plan tailored to your needs. You can use therapy... show more

What is your typical process for working with clients?

I use a blend of trauma-informed, evidence-based approaches, drawing from coherence therapy, relational therapy, parts work, mindfulness, and somatic awareness. During sessions, you'll feel heard and supported as we explore emotions, uncover patterns, and practice tools to quiet the inner... show more

In-network insurances

Liane Brust, MA, LMHC is not in-network with any insurances

It's common for mental health providers to be out-of-network. Many insurance plans offer out-of-network coverage, so you may get partially reimbursed.

Liane is a breath of fresh air. She is incredibly knowledgeable and open minded, making me feel at peace when talking to her about anything on my mind. She deeply understands my struggles of navigating the corporate world while balancing motherhood. And although we have different backgrounds, I've never once felt discouraged from speaking with her about my culture. She approaches every conversation we have with kindness and compassion, always providing me with insightful perspectives... show more
